Monthly Newsletter for our Australian Alumni Community

ISSUE 65 | JULY 2026

A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Dear Members and Partners,

Welcome to the July Newsletter.

This month, the big event for the AAS was our Tour and Fireside Chat at the Parliament House with Speaker of Parliament, Mr Seah Kian Peng. Our members were treated to a tour of Parliament house including a tour of the floor and the gallery of Parliament. Thank you to the Parliamentary guides who gave a interesting and historical narrative of the history of Singapore Government. Thank you to REACH for jointly organising this event with us. After the tour we sat down to lunch and had our fireside chat with Speaker of House, Mr. Seah and our moderator, Past President, Mr Joseph Kwok. Thank you Mr. Seah for a very candid and open chat which the members thoroughly enjoyed. Mr. Seah is a Colombo Scholar and University of NSW alumnus.

The Gala

The big announcement in terms of upcoming events is the Gala Dinner. We are delighted to announce to everyone that this year's Gala Dinner will be on Saturday, 17th October and will be held at the prestigious Resorts World Singapore (RWS) Convention Centre, Sentosa. Please put a placeholder in your calendar and reserve this evening for what promises to be one of excitement and meaningful connections with you fellow alumni and friends. Here's a little hint on the theme. Both Singapore and Australia are great trading nations whereby maritime trade and travel feature prominently in our histories. Get your crew together and get ready to set sail for adventure.

Yours Sincerely,

Andrew Er

ALEX HYNE | GRIFFITH UNIVERSITY | FINANCE PROFESSIONAL | CFA LEVEL 3 CANDIDATE | EXPERIENCED IN ARTS

Before transitioning into finance, I worked professionally in musical theatre for 15 years, performing internationally across the UK, Europe, Asia, and Australia. I originally studied at the world-leading Laine Theatre Arts just outside London. I went on to perform in many different shows, including Mamma Mia!, Evita, West Side Story, Jesus Christ Superstar, Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat, School of Rock, and many more. Early in my performing career, I also spent two and a half years at sea on luxury cruise lines. That experience shaped my adaptability, discipline, and ability to connect across cultures.

Australian Alumni Singapore is a natural extension of that interest: a community that actively contributes to deepening the relationship between our two countries. That is also why I wanted to join the Management Committee, so I could play a more active role in continuing to build those connections.

My professional finance experience includes roles with Perpetual Limited, IAG, QBE, KPMG, and the Office of the Prime Minister of Australia. I am also a CFA Level III candidate and a Certified Financial Modelling & Valuation Analyst (FMVA®). At the moment, I divide my time between studying, writing occasional research reports for clients in Australia, playing tennis, going to trivia, enjoying a nice wine, and supporting my beloved Tottenham Hotspur. I am particularly interested in opportunities within finance that combine relationship-building, presenting ideas, and thoughtful research.

"My ideal week is a mix of attending industry events, meeting people, sharing ideas, and doing the work that underpins credible conversations and long-term relationships."

Where Experience Meets Aspiration

Australian Alumni Singapore Mentorship Programme sparks meaningful connections with James Cook University

BY AUSTRALIAN ALUMNI SINGAPORE

On a warm July evening by the Singapore River, conversations flowed as freely as the ideas. At Dallas Restaurant, Boat Quay, nearly 30 mentors and mentees came together—not just to network, but to start journeys that could shape careers, businesses and lives.

The AAS Mentorship Programme Mentor–Mentee Mixer, held in collaboration with James Cook University (JCU) Singapore, brought together Master of Business Administration and Master of Psychology students, along with recent graduates, for an evening of ice-breakers, rapport-building activities and inspired conversations. By the end of the night, new mentor–mentee matches were confirmed—opening doors to guidance, support and growth.

A PURPOSE-LED PROGRAMME

Established and chaired by Dr Victor Tay, the AAS Mentorship Programme reflects AAS's commitment to developing future-ready leaders through relationships that go beyond classrooms and boardrooms.

The programme runs on a dual-track focus:

Professional Career Progression

Guiding mentees through leadership, career transitions and personal development with insights from accomplished industry practitioners.

Entrepreneurial Journey

Connecting aspiring founders and innovators with business captains, investors and entrepreneurs who offer real-world advice, strategy and access to networks.

“Mentorship is not about transferring knowledge; it is about unlocking potential. When experience meets curiosity, both mentor and mentee leave wiser than when they first met.”

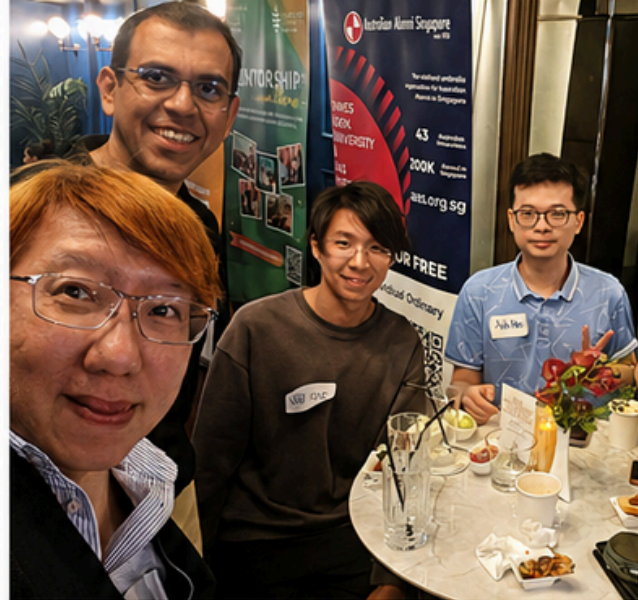

– Dr Victor Tay

Chair, AAS Mentorship Programme

A TWO-WAY JOURNEY

Mentorship is a two-way street. While mentees gain access to decades of experience and practical wisdom, mentors are equally enriched—gaining fresh perspectives, staying abreast of current trends and reconnecting with the energy and optimism of the next generation.

It is this exchange that keeps mentors curious and relevant, and mentees confident and future-ready.

Ice-breakers, shared stories and a spirit of curiosity set the tone for a vibrant evening of connections and new possibilities.

DIVERSITY THAT INSPIRES

This year's cohort is a striking example of mentorship without boundaries. We had an 86-year-old mentor sharing a lifetime of experience alongside a 32-year-old mentor already making an impact in industry. Mentees ranged from a 19-year-old student stepping into the professional world to a 62-year-old participant embracing a new chapter of learning and growth.

In a world where careers are increasingly non-linear and industries are being reshaped by AI, digitalisation and entrepreneurship, this diversity creates conversations that are both timeless and deeply relevant.

Supported by strong partners and dedicated leaders.

VOICES THAT ECHO THE IMPACT

“Every successful professional stands on the shoulders of those who invested time, wisdom and encouragement. Mentorship creates a multiplier effect—one conversation today can shape countless opportunities tomorrow.”

– Dr Roger Wong

President, Singapore Digital Chamber of Commerce

“As a young professional, I always wished to be a mentor. That's why the AAS Mentorship Programme is a game-changer. I've learned as much from my mentee's fresh outlook as she has from my experience. The connection, support and growth are priceless.”

– AAS Mentor

JCU in Singapore team named finalists at National AI Student Challenge 2026

A team of students from the School of Science and Technology at the Singapore campus of James Cook University (JCU in Singapore) was recognised as finalists in the National AI Student Challenge \(NAISC\) 2026. Organised by AI Singapore, NAISC brought students from Singapore and the region together to solve real-world industry problems using AI, while developing skills in innovation, collaboration and problem-solving.

Representing JCU in Singapore under the name Team Technologia, the students were:

- Dayangku Sarah Nuurul Aliyah Pengiran Omar Ali – Bachelor of Science (Data Science)
- Khin Chan Thar – Bachelor of Science (Data Science)
- Muhammad Haziq Bin Yusri – Bachelor of Science (Data Science)
- Khaing Yati Naing – Bachelor of Information Technology
- Rico Winson Tandoto – Bachelor of Information Technology

Team Technologia from JCU in Singapore develops AI-powered solution to simplify troubleshooting across different machine log formats.

The team's solution, Self-Evolving Log Intelligence System (SELIS), was designed to help organisations analyse machine logs more efficiently.

Machine logs are records generated by software, servers and network devices to capture system activity. However, because different manufacturers use different log formats, analysing information across multiple systems can be slow and labour-intensive. Existing solutions often require extensive manual configuration or become unreliable when systems are updated.

SELIS addresses this challenge by combining traditional parsing methods with artificial intelligence to automatically interpret different log formats. This enables faster troubleshooting, more accurate analysis and improved security, while reducing the need for time-consuming manual work.

"Getting to this point at the competition has been incredibly rewarding. It gave us a platform to apply what we learnt in class to solve a real-world problem while also learning from other talented students across Singapore. Throughout the competition, we strengthened not only our technical skills but also our teamwork, communication and problem-solving abilities. We're so grateful for the guidance from our lecturer Dr Randy Zhu and are proud to represent the university on a national scale," said the team in a joint statement.

"Being selected as finalists in a national competition is a commendable achievement," said Dr Randy Zhu, Lecturer in Information Technology at JCU in Singapore, the team's mentor over the course of the competition.

"The team's participation reflects their dedication, teamwork, creativity and willingness to challenge themselves beyond the classroom. We hope their journey inspires more students to pursue opportunities in innovation, technology and competitions that enable them to apply their knowledge to real-world challenges," he adds.

JCU in Singapore encourages and supports students to take up such opportunities alongside their regular coursework, where they can put their knowledge and skills to the test in real-world scenarios while gaining valuable experience and credentials.

AAS Business Council Luncheon Series

23 Jul 2026 | hosted by Robert Half

Special thanks to Robert Half Singapore for hosting another incredible luncheon for the AAS Business Council members to connect.

This session, we were honored by the valuable insights shared by JCU Singapore Deputy Vice Chancellor Prof. Carole-Anne Upton, and Australian High Commission Economic Counsellor Katrina Lourie, as well as the presence of H.E. Alex Tilman, Ambassador of Timor-Leste.

H1 2026 REVIEW

The first half of 2026 has been a dynamic period for the Melbourne Business School (MBS) Singapore Chapter, providing several opportunities for alumni to mingle, learn and grow.

In April, we hosted Australian Deputy High Commissioner Emily Follett for an update on the Australia–Singapore Comprehensive Strategic Partnership (CSP 2.0). We also featured a presentation by Lenexa Medical co-founders Ajit Ravindran and Will Yang. Their discussion on the startup, incubated within the BioDesign Innovation program, was moderated by visiting MBS Associate Professor Kwanghui Lim.

In May, Professor Lim returned to lead a panel on AI Strategy and Responsible Innovation. This collaborative event with the University of Melbourne Singapore Alumni brought our communities together to explore the practical challenges of the evolving AI landscape.

In July, our members engaged with visiting MBS Professor Ujwal Kayande. That week also included a networking session with James Lee, President, University of Melbourne Alumni of Singapore, and Li-Lin Kwong, Vice President, Australian Alumni Singapore.

The Singapore Alumni Chapter is a community of leaders, founders, and professionals united by our experience at MBS. Through industry panels and informal meetups, we provide a space to exchange ideas, gain perspectives, and reconnect.

If you are an MBS alumnus in Singapore or an Australian university alumnus with common interests, I invite you to connect. We maintain dedicated LinkedIn and WhatsApp groups and are working with the Australian Alumni Singapore to keep our community informed.
